

Globaltrack's Solution For Generators

Across Africa there has been an increased usage of generators as electricity is in short supply. Most business firms must provide their own generators among other infrastructural requirements. Power remains a high business expense and in markets like Nigeria, mega size generators are a common sight. The major operational cost for a generator is fuel and it is important to monitor this resource.

Globaltrack's solution for generators provides businesses with information on refilling levels as well as detecting possible fuel theft. This is made possible with hardware that monitors both fixed and mobile assets in the form of GPRS units and satellite tracking units. These units are compatible with fuel sensors that are installed in the tank of the generator to detect any changes in fuel levels.

The fuel probes can be installed on tanks that range from 8 litres to 4400 litres and can detect fuel changes as low as 2 litres.

You will benefit from the following:

- monitor the actual amount of fuel used per hour
- receive notifications as soon as fuel is siphoned/stolen
- improved maintenance allowing you to schedule maintenance services
- set up event management notifications, such as fuel level notifications

You can monitor your generators' fuel usage through Globaltrack's:

- mobile app
- web-based system: Webtrack
- sms/email notifications

Our products are designed to:

- save you cost
- offer you peace of mind
- increase operational efficiency
